BPSA TARGETING TALENT PROGRAMME

Department of Energy in partnership with BPSA would like to invite members of the media to attend and cover the launch of the BPSA Targeting Talent Programme. The Targeting Talent Programme (TTP) aims to increase the academic, social and psychological preparation of gifted learners from socio-economically disadvantaged backgrounds for admission, and enrolment at South African universities

BPSA has decided to make the TTP part of its formal medium to long-term transformation programme, and utilises it as a base for the creation of a talent pipeline of future professionals for the oil industry and related industries. BP is also aligned with the South African government's objectives of growing SA's economy and create more jobs.
